COVER STORY

Two of the young stars of BOMABWA BASENJIS are shown on this month's cover. The elegant young male is CH. BOMAR'S JOLLY JOKER, two year old son of Merlea Sunshine of Spearwood and Am. Can. Ch. Bomar's Fula Folly of Katanga. JOKER is blessed with a magnificent head and floating, driving movement and fantastic angulation, as well as a mahogany, superfine coat. This combination of assets allowed him to speedily finish his American championship, earning his majors at Goshen and Westbury, two supported shows. JOLLY JOKER earns his name - a sweeter but nuttier Basenji has never been seen. He will not appear in the specials ring until he learns not to treat it all like fun and games. Right now he is in Canada to get his Canadian title, and join his mother, uncle (Am. Can. Ch. Katanga's War Lord of Bomar), and grandsire (Am. Can. Ch. Rose-Bay's Gay Blade, Am. Can. C. D.) and Am. Can. Ch. Merlea Sun Dancer. JOKER is standing at stud at BOMABWA along with GAY BLADE, WAR LORD and others.

Our youngest hopeful is the little black girl BOMABWA BI-BI BUSY BEE, shown here completing her title in Canada at 7 months. Sired by the famous black champion Am. Can. Ch. Katanga's War Lord of Bomar, out of our dainty female champion Can. Ch. Gamble's Bi-Golly of Bomar. BEE (or Woo-Woo as she is often called due to her constant yodeling) is following in her famous parents' footsteps. Entered in 5 shows, she went Reserve twice and Winners three times, earning 2 points at the Lakehead show in Thunder Bay, Ontario on July 3, and then taking back to back 5-point majors at the Oxford County Kennel Club show, Woodstock, Ontario, July 11 and 12, and also going BOS over specials, handled by Susann Hearne. BUSY BEE is co-owned by Barbara Wardell (BOURN BASENJIS) and Roberta Abelson. She will now be entered in shows in the United States, starting in September. With cat feet, fine glossy coat, and short level topline (unfortunately shows poorly in our single photo of her), in addition to magnificent showmanship and soundness. She'll have no trouble finishing here. BEE will not be bred this fall, but will be the next season. We are willing to file puppy requests.

Planned breedings of both JOKER and BEE'S dams, to different studs, will take place this fall. Reservations accepted. Our stud force of reds, blacks and tris are available to all approved bitches. From Carlene Carter

This second letter concerns an experience of this past week which was extremely upsetting to both my husband and myself. We had learned from a local, small Basenji breeder that there is a puppy mill nearby. We had heard a great deal about these puppy mills and have been following the articles in "The Basenji," so we decided to see for ourselves. It made us ill!

Small breeds are kept in tiny crates; large breeds in closed-in areas in a barn, and the medium breeds all mixed up in 4' x 5' areas. What hurt the most was a pair of Basenjis that were starved for love and affection. We were allowed to see the bitch's registration slip and the dog's pedigree. His background is good, but he has no curl in his tail. The bitch has good conformation, but poor coat color. Both need a great deal of exercise. We talked at length to the owners, trying to discourage them against keeping the Basenjis, mainly using the one season a year and puppies seldom ready for sale by Christmas angle. The owners would not consider selling the 4-year-old dog as they use him for stud, but are willing to sell the year old bitch at show price.

It was difficult to turn away without buying, if only to see them out of such a place. What can concerned dog people do about these puppy mills?

I am wondering too if local Basenji owners are aware that the Brookfield Zoo in Chicago has a Basenji. INGA, the barkless dog! She is in the Children's Zoo in a type of pit that has an island of dirt and rock built up in the center. For shade she has a piece of canvas stretched over four poles. She is a young bitch and is pet stock, but it seems a shame she has no family for love and companionship.

I cringe at the way I have seen Basenjis treated this past week.

From Dean I. Guess

Just want to take up where Grannie Green left off when asked by a judge, "what happened to the Basenji wrinkles?" I am going to add, "the tightly curled tail, high arched toes and small ears?" Also the level topline!

I will go along with the judge about too many people are in dogs for the money and it is beginning to show up in the show rings with too many dogs not coming close to the standard in more places than one. . .

None have ever been 100% perfect, but breed to improve on what you have for the betterment of the breed. . .

HOUND OR TERRIER

by Ernest Goodman

8 Hardy Grove, Folly Lane, Swinton, Manchester

As one who has bred, shown and judged both Terriers and Basenjis over a period of many years, I would like to be permitted to comment in detail upon the current controversy which has arisen from the decision of the canine authorities in France and Italy to include Basenjis in the Terrier group.

May I begin by stating that although I believe there is an adequate case for suggesting that the Basenji belongs among the hounds, the examination of this question must be undertaken dispassionately and objectively. No authoritative body is going to be impressed with emotional attitudes and inaccurate generalisations which cannot be sustained. Let us accept also that there is no onus upon the ruling body in canine affairs in any country to accept the same groupings of breeds as other countries, since in any case the inclusion of a number of breeds in almost every group is obviously to some extent arbitrary. There are, for instance, differences between the British and American groupings. The Miniature Schnauzer is not a member of the Terrier group in the United Kingdom, although it has obvious visual similarities. The word "terrier" is reputed to be derived from the Latin word "terra," signifying the role of such dogs in going to earth after vermin, and this, of course, was the original role of Terriers, and still is of some. The modern grouping, however, seeking to deal with the proliferation of different breeds arising from experiments using the original Terriers crossed with other breeds to produce a much greater variety for a multitude of purposes, is a very loose arrangement, having more to do with origin and visual appearance than with the function of many modern Terrier breeds. The use of the Otterhound in producing the Airedale, and the Bulldog to produce the Bull-Terrier, and Staffordshire, were obviously designed to produce dogs with very different purposes than going to ground. In the case particularly of the last breed, the standard calls at most points for characteristics which are completely contrary to those desirable for most other Terrier breeds, particularly the "classical" Terriers if one may use that term, such as the Fox Terriers.

With great respect, and with sympathy for her obvious concern, it seems to me that Genie Rundle, in her article in the June issue, has been led by her anxiety into a number of insupportable generalisations and irrelevancies which might lead to a weakening of her case if it is presented in similar fashion to the canine authorities. May I be more specific. From her Webster's definition of Terriers, most of the attributes quoted, e.g., "generally small, vivacious, intelligent and courageous, and useful in hunting some kinds of game" would in fact fit the Basenji very well. In other words the Basenji fits this description far better than many breeds already included among the Terriers! She goes on to say, "Imagine a Bedlington expert judging a Basenji." In fact, this is commonplace in the United Kingdom, and I suspect the all-rounder judges in the United States often are specialists in Terrier breeds, and gained most of their experience with such breeds, often never owning a Basenji.

Nor is it permissible to generalise about temperaments. Otherwise, what about all the talk which has gone on, and the concern which still persists for Basenji temperaments? Terriers are not, in fact, all noisy, aggressive and unsociable any more than breeds from any other group. I have often heard as much noise from Elkhounds for instance, and occasionally from Basenjis as from any of the Terrier breeds. One hears very little fuss from Bedlingtons, Dandies and other Terriers I could mention, and I have seen many kennels where mixed groups of Terriers have run happily together. As for sociability, one of the appealing characteristics of the Basenji at times is his aloofness and independence of spirit, and there is no breed gentler with children and families generally than the fierce looking Staffordshire Bull Terrier. We cannot therefore, afford to be superior on this account. Mrs. Rundle's observations on differences of type within the breed raise a problem which besets every breed I know, but one which would appear not to have great relevance to the main issue since it is a matter which must be dealt with mainly by dedicated attention to it by the Basenji breeders of each country.

ROMEL'S BISHANABISHI

(Ch. Tanda's Jaunty Dandy x Ch. Kenara's Arianna)

All that I have written above is not to deny that there is a case for the Basenji to be designated as a hound, but to clear the issue of misconceptions which cannot be adequately substantiated. What kind of case, therefore, is left to us? I would suggest there is still a strong one which I would like to state below in tabulated form:

1) It seems chauvinistic in the extreme for the F.C.I. to ignore the fact that in the two countries where the Basenji has been developed as a show dog from its primitive origins, where the largest number of Basenjis exist, and whence the foundation stock for other countries emanates, the Basenji is classified as a hound. I have seen no good reasons published by the F.C.I. for a contrary view, so cannot understand why, on grounds of international uniformity and administrative convenience this should not be taken into account.

2) Although I have stated above that there is a great deal of divergence in present function between different Terriers, there is a general origin from the common Terrier of pre-show days, and the Basenji does not fit into this category.

3) The pure Terrier, ignoring much modern usage, was bred as a killer, originally going to earth to finish the job after the hounds had run their quarry to earth. Even now, the job of most Terriers is either this, or to fight, to destroy vermin, or as in the case of the Airedale, to guard. They are not required to run and bound at speed, or to round up fast moving game.

LONDON LIMELIGHTS

by Joyce Mullis

Box 517, 7500 AB Sqd., APO New York 09125

THE LIMELIGHT shines this month on Miss Veronica Tudor-Williams. In the shadow of the limelight trots little FULA, complete with crow! This was a long awaited visit after having met Veronica at many of the shows, and after having seen her judge the Hound Association show in July. Visiting with someone in their home is much nicer than just having a few stolen minutes at a busy show. This visit was no exception.

To be able to sit down with someone like Veronica and talk of the early days in the breed, is such a rare opportunity in today's busy world. Everyone is well aware of a lady named Veronica Tudor-Williams, but few get to know her as she really is. An energetic, lively woman who is much younger than her years would indicate. At 72, she prances around the ring like a 27-year-old, and loves every minute of it. Viewing Veronica in person is quite different from seeing her in her book, "Basenjis The Barkless Dog." She is closer to 5 feet, and 85 pounds than her photos would have you believe.

Miss Tudor-Williams is a dog world legend in her own time, and yet she isn't particularly aware of the fact. She continues to write a weekly column for the English dog paper, "Our Dogs," and does an occasional column for this magazine.

FULA is now getting on in years and being a native bred and born dog, she is quite different in many ways to the kennel bred and born dog. Little FULA had to have countless shots before arriving in England, and while she was in quarantine, for abscesses caused by maggot flies. Still later she got another countless number of shots for a calcium deficiency following a litter of pups. At one point during the treatment she decided she had had enough, and to this day she is very leary of people's hands. With us she was marvelous. Trotting around and crowing like a pup.

"In 1940," says Veronica as she produced her scrapbook of momentos, "Some British people were very angry that dogs were being fed food intended for people. To subdue this outcry, I wrote to 'Our Dogs' suggesting that we dog people buy a Spitfire (famous WW II fighter plane). This was done, but unfortunately it was shot down."

As BINZA, the tiger striped dog brought out with FULA in 1959, was of interest to me, we talked at some length about him and his descendents. We also saw a great many slides taken during the 1959 trip into Zande country (Southern Sudan) of clearly defined tiger striped dogs. It doesn't seem right somehow that the original standard managed to carry qualifications for the tri and black and white (when we had neither of them) and not the true tiger striped too.

The Tudor-Williams' home is situated on the banks of Thames River. Excepting for an occasional plane flying overhead, it's a very peaceful scene with all the boats sailing up and down the river.

Veronica has been very busy redecorating her home, and is doing a superb job of it. Lovely old furniture, which I have a fondness for, and her favorite paintings hanging on the walls. Plush green carpeting and off-white walls. The house radiates Veronica's personality.

She has so much kindness in her heart. She is the children's Queen because she twists their arms to eat more cake and candy. This critique from our Kathy.

THE HOUND ASSOCIATION CHAMPIONSHIP SHOW

With no C.C.'s. for Basenjis, was judged by Veronica Tudor-Williams. I think it was remarkable that she was able to find a winner under such adverse ring conditions, but eventually, Miss Cook's RIVIANA FALCONELLE emerged as Best of Breed. Miss Christy Davies came out of the ring red-faced (continued on page 25)

CAPITOL PAW PRINTS

by Marvin G. Wallis

5014 Mendell Street, Fairfax, Virginia 22030

We are surviving our annual heat wave: high temperatures, high humidity, high pollution and high blood pressure - all quite normal for this time of the year. It does remind us that we shall all have to take especial care that our dogs have adequate shade and clean water. And we shall also note that the amount of food eaten is a bit less, so watch carefully and do not leave uneaten portions lying about to spoil in the heat - or to attract unwanted visitors of any description.

Many have heard of the "jet set," but I wonder if you know that we have our own "putt-putt" set. It's Agness Wood up here from Florida in her VW bus to enjoy (?) the summer with us. Of course, her "gang" of Basenjis also came along.

Welcome to "sick call." It seems a few people here and there have been visiting hospitals to check on the quality of service provided. Damara Bolte' spent a brief stay among the "white coats" following a brief involvement or rather a disengagement with a horse. What was that old quote? Was it "Tender is the heart" - or some other part of the anatomy? That's the "here." The "there" is in another capitol area - London, where Jayne Stringer is mending from an operation and mending nicely, I'm told.

From our "keep-the-motor-running" department, one of our locals has prevailed upon Agness Wood to "dog sit" so the local can complete a judging assignment which will include Beagles, Any Variety Pointer, including Weimaraners and Vizslas, A.V. Setter, A.V. Retriever, A.V. Spaniel and A.V. not separately classified on a Saturday just about the time you will be reading this. The following day the local is to do what (continued on page 25)

YODELS FROM THE EVERGREEN BASENJI CLUB

by Sheila H. Smith

14944 21st Avenue S.W., Seattle, Washington 98166

The Second Evergreen Basenji Club Specialty is over - and you've oft heard "The Rain in Spain Falls Mainly on the Plain," and oft heard the saying is, "It Never Rains during Seafair." Ha, Ha, Ha! Mother and nephew Jim arrived two weeks before the specialty. Meanwhile, Yvette had flown to California to spend time with Judy Zenner, and she and Judy arrived about a week before the specialty with 4 Basenjis in tow. On Wednesday Linda Hollenbeck arrived with 2 more and we had crates stacked all over the dining room. Robert was thrilled! He's mad for dogs. Mad!

We made an unannounced trip to TINAS COMA KENNEL, and luckily found Mazie at home. She bragged about her curtains she had made for the new boat, aptly named "The Alibi." The curtains look simply lovely on the boat. The hand stitching is glorious, and the fabric also! Back in the kitchen, we decided to try her leftovers and they were delicious.

A thank you to the EBC - a club with "togetherness," from a very grateful specialty chairman. With all our setbacks, we did have a fun 'two show' weekend. First we found that Commander Stringer didn't have time for AKC approval, so Seattle Kennel Club called P. David Hill to judge Basenjis. Mr. Hill is a conscientious and very courteous judge. We feel he did an excellent job on his first assignment. Next we received a letter from Mrs. Stringer, stating she had had a bad fall which entailed major surgery. We cried a lot, but dried our tears and called Sam McKee, knowing he needed his third assignment. Mr. McKee was delighted and EBC was grateful that he accepted. Saturday loomed grey and rainy. Whoever heard of rain during Seafair? But here it was, but it didn't dampen anyone's spirits. Judging started promptly at 1:30. Due to a mix-up, both conformation and obedience judging were scheduled at the same time. I'm sorry to say we only had 5 obedience entries for Judge Basil Orr. He is a wonderful man and gives our Basenjis more credit than we do. He thinks, with their intelligence and alertness, they are an excellent breed for obedience, especially jumping and retrieving. JoAnne Weller walked away with all the obedience trophies, and then promptly donated them to the EBC for their 1971 specialty! Thank you, JoAnne! You and your dogs are a delight!

Sam did a very good job with an entry of 79, with 69 present. 28 dogs, 32 bitches, 7 specials and 2 veterans. He placed Barbara Fay's KENARA'S BRANDY SNIFTER as Winners Dog, Best of Winners and Best of Opposite Sex. Dorothy Felton's puppy HOLLYFEL'S KIMANI went Reserve Dog. Yvette Smith's SIR ENIDTAR OF HORSLEY went Winners Bitch. Mae and Norm Wallace's TINAS COMA'S MODERN MILLIE went Reserve Bitch. And our AM, CAN, CH, TESSERACT PRINCESS PANDORA won Best of Breed. JoAnne Weller's veteran bitch TAKU warmed our hearts as she came out of the ring yodeling. What a lady and how she loves to show!

Mrs. Grace Weller, JoAnne's mother, presented the Best of Breed trophy in memory of AM, CAN, CH, DAINY DANCER OF GLENAIRLEY.

After the judging we had time to totter home to park dogs and change for dinner. Most of the exhibitors managed to go to the buffet so nicely planned and decorated by Elaine Shannon. We enjoyed seeing our friends from California, Colorado, Oregon and British Columbia. They are fun people and we had a great time talking dogs. Hope to see them and others next year at our third annual specialty.

The Magnolia Basenji Club

by Betty T. Hogland

13256 108th Avenue North, Largo, Florida 33540

At the recent Carolina (GSAC) circuit, although many MBC members were not present, their Basenjies made a fine showing. There were majors in both dogs and bitches at each show. See results in the show reports. Besides the many nice wins in Carolina, word has been received that the Websters' AM, CH. UBOMBO OF HILLS HALF ACRE completed his Canadian championship. Congratulations!

We hope everyone who possibly can, will make the Atlanta show and BCOA Southern Specialty. The plans sound great and the various committees are working hard. It will be a real fun time.

Old-timers can skip the rest of the column this month as it is written mainly for exhibitors who are showing for the first few times. Last month (thanks to George C. Jones, III) we discussed grooming and it can't be stressed too strongly that show dogs be presented in a clean condition. Even if one does not know the fine points of grooming, the dog can be clean.

As for the actual showing, we shall suppose that you have attended dog shows and have some idea of what is required once you enter the ring with your Basenji. Even if you have the best dog entered, don't expect to win all the time, nor should you have the negative attitude that you couldn't possibly win as neither you nor your dog will show to the best advantage. If you have done your homework faithfully and have a reasonably presentable specimen of the breed, you will have the same chance to win as everyone else.

Now the homework. If possible, try to have the dog enjoy his training so he will not be bored or lackadaisical. This can come about by your attitude toward training. Go out there like this will really be a "fun time," and your dog will have the same attitude. First, and the earlier the better, make certain that he becomes accustomed to some sort of restraint around his neck without his resenting it. This may take several days of patience on both your parts. Do not force or hurry, particularly in the early stages of training. Once he becomes adjusted to the collar, add a lead and practice gaiting with the dog's head held up (no sniffing). With a young puppy, just attach the lead and let him play with it and drag it around until he gets used to it. (Do this early training off by yourself where there are no distractions of his littermates, or other dogs). Dog should be at your left side. When they are older, 3 to 6 months (depending on how much training they've had as young pups), have someone watch you and tell you at what rate of pace the dog shows to his best advantage. Some judges will ask you to slow down, and some will ask you to speed up, but you should know your dog's best gait and use it when you can. About ten minutes a day practice should do it. Keep the collar (or show lead) high on his neck so he will not choke constantly and do not try to hold his head higher than is comfortable or he will not gait with the free swing he's supposed to have.

When you enter the ring and everyone is settled in place, the judge will usually have you gait your dog along with the others in the ring. This is partly to get the dogs in the proper mood and also for general comparison. After going around the ring, you will be told to stop and set your dog up for examination, in line with the other entries. (More on how to do this in a later issue). Presumably, the judge will check each dog for soundness, bite, tail and ear set, coat condition, angulation, etc. And in the case of males, he also checks their under-pinnings. The dog should remain quietly in place throughout the examination. Then you will be asked to gait your dog individually following the route the judge tells you. Sometimes it is just up and back, away from, and toward the judge, and

by Sam McKee

3121 Knik Avenue, Anchorage, Alaska 99503

This past weekend was one of the most exciting of all since I started showing and judging dogs. There I was, out in the middle of that open field with the rain coming down, but I wouldn't have traded places with anyone. Just a few days previously I'd had an emergency call — Mrs. Stringer was ill and would be unable to judge the Evergreen Basenji Club specialty. Would I fill in. Would I? "I'll be there with bells on!"

Certainly hope Mrs. Stringer has a quick recovery — she missed a large turnout of good dogs, both for the specialty and at the Seattle show the next day, judged by former BCOA National Specialty Chairman David Hill. Bet that doesn't happen too often: two shows on one weekend, each judged by a provisional on his very first assignment at a licensed show.

The gathering of Basenjites Saturday night following the specialty was a festive occasion. I thought I had made a proper speech of appreciation for the portable bar which the EBC members had purchased for me — only to be informed that I had been elected an honorary member of the Evergreen Basenji Club. My thanks to all those who made the weekend something I'll treasure always.

I had originally planned to come home Sunday night but found that a pot-luck had been planned and David and I were to be there. Scratched my plans; comparing notes is what I most like to do. Stayed over till Monday night — Alaska Airlines was oversold and I got to ride home first class, even if we were an hour late getting off the ground. Sometimes you feel you must have been living right.

With other travelling coming up, I'm having to skip any other specialties this year. That's a shame, but I've committed myself to being chief ring steward at the Alaska Kennel Club's sanctioned match, August 16 — I also have to go to Nome very shortly, and you'll see me at my next two judging assignments: September 12 at Sioux Falls, South Dakota, and September 20 at Santa Ana, California.

Made that 150-mile drive to Kenai a couple of Sundays back to enter the second fun match held by the Kenai Kennel Club. Met at the door by a frantic show chairman: would I judge the match please, since the scheduled judge hadn't shown up. Glad to help, but unhappy at missing the competition — I had DILLY with me, planning on competing against 3 pups of Jean Hayes' breeding, but the pup had to stay in her crate while I officiated. And that my only chance to get some experience prior to the Seattle show — so she went in the ring there without any knowledge of what a ring looked like. No excuses, just facts.

I manage to cause comment on ring procedure whenever I judge. At the EBC specialty I asked all exhibitors to come into the ring in catalog order. Why? I have several reasons, not the least of which is that I have a great dislike for a pile-up at ring entrance with an unseemly haste to be first on the part of some exhibitors. I also had the ring steward announce that I wanted the exhibitors to show me the bite. I don't care to carry germs from one dog's mouth to the next.

Also a dog that rumbles deep in his throat will draw an admonition from me, but the dog that snaps or tries to bite is summarily dismissed from the ring. Judging is not a test of physical courage, and temperament is my first consideration when it comes to judging any breed. Then we'll talk about type and soundness.

BRONZE BENJIMAN OF LONGRUN

This is the sweetest, most affectionate dog I have raised. She has a perfect temperament and has been raised in our home, around two small children. She has some good wins in the puppy matches. Due to a change of residence, I reluctantly offer her for sale. The price is reasonable as my main concern is that she goes to a loving home.

The GREATER ATLANTA BASENJI CLUB

by Kathy Kent

1750 Mayfield Road, Alpharetta, Georgia 30201

We have moved to another island on Lake Sidney Lanier. Our boat motor broke down and the company that makes them is on strike, so we've moved to an island with rowing distance to shore and our cars.

The island we were on had mainly pine trees with only a scattering of hardwoods. The Basenjis never wore their flea collars as they just didn't need them. The island we're on now has mainly hardwoods with just a scattering of pines and I have never seen so many chiggers, mosquitoes and fleas on our Basenjis. The flea collars have helped, but they just can't handle the volume.

If you are planning to build a kennel or make your back yard suitable for Basenjis, I would suggest you plant pines. If you can't, keep the lower branches of the hardwoods trimmed off and rake up all leaves and underbrush frequently. I'd like to know about the bug situation in other areas of the United States. Is there any difference?

The Greater Atlanta Basenji Club had their summer fun match, July 10, in the front yard of Don and Linda Mooney's house. Our judge was member George C. Jones, III, who did a thorough and commendable job. Best Puppy in Match was Donna Snoderly's bitch, BEAUTY. Best Adult in Match was our own REVELLE RIDDLE. The turnout of members and their Basenjis was less than our spring match, but we hope to out-do even that one in our fall match, October 4th.

Refreshments were provided by the Mooneys, and a minimal fee was charged for each item. After expenses were paid, the club found itself with quite a profit from a very fun afternoon.

The constitution of our club is being revised at this time. We hope to make certain practices in our area non-existent. The revisions will be along the following lines:

1. A member of The Greater Atlanta Basenji Club is subject to suspension if he contracts any Basenjis to any wholesale outlets, pet shops, humane shelters or any other operation that is known to endanger the health, spirit or prestige of the Basenji.

2. A member of the GABC is subject to suspension if knowingly sells inferior stock to breeding homes, offers for stud an inferior Basenji at a cut rate fee, or breeds Basenjis that repeatedly throw puppies who exhibit bad temperaments or any other intolerable condition.

Minimum prices will be set by the general membership, for puppies. During the puppy season, the club will place an advertisement weekly in the largest newspaper, listing the club and a member's telephone number who can relay all puppy information to prospective buyers, so as to show a united Basenji market to the public.

Hopefully, these revisions will pull our Basenji people in the Atlanta area closer together and be a real step in bettering our breed.

Remember to write to Mrs. Donna Snoderly, 3814 Ensign Drive, Chamblee, Georgia 30341, for your motel and dinner reservations. (See last month's column for location and prices). Many of the GABC members will be staying at the motel to assist in crate unloading and Basenji walking all day Friday.

KNOW YOUR FELLOW JUNIORS

by Denise Craven

Route 2, Box 187A, Mount Airy, Maryland 21771

Hi Gang! Since last April, my sister and I have been attending a 4-H dog obedience course, and after the final lesson in early July, we attended the Carroll County 4-H FFA Fair, where we were judged on obedience, handling and grooming. The judging on handling was very much like a junior handling class at a dog show. At the same time we were judged on how well our dogs were groomed. Next we were given a test for obedience; this was also like an obedience class at a trial.

During the time we took lessons, we also compiled a dog notebook, and were scored on it as well as those given each individual for handling, grooming, and obedience. The scores were totaled to decide on the Grand Champion and Reserve Champion for both junior and senior divisions in the beginners' class.

The notebook was a lot of fun, even if there were a couple hundred questions to answer on the care and training of dogs. We also had to call three advertisements for puppies in our local paper and visit one of the litters of puppies. I visited an Afghan breeder and what fun, along with making a new friend. We also had to visit the Carroll County Humane Society to find out about their facilities and how they care for the various animals.

Heather and I had fun training our Basenjis, although Heather's FROLIC had a tendency to fall asleep on the "long down" on sunny days. They competed in the junior division and won third place in the obedience judging and sixth in the handling class. I trained DIPLOMAT and won Reserve Senior Champion. DIPLOMAT is a bit of a clown and didn't care for the training at home, but as soon as he was able to perform before an audience, he would become a different dog. Neither of us found the training too hard. Of course, we had an excellent trainer in Eleanor Bradley. Mrs. Bradley has an exceptional understanding of various breeds of dogs, including Basenjis.

We plan to continue with this 4-H project next year and wondered how it compares with 4-H projects that other Basenji owners have participated in, in various parts of the United States.

Tophandler for junior handling for 1969 went to Michael Work of Pennsylvania - now too old to show in junior handling. Michael received the award given by the BCOA. He had the top score for winning, although he didn't acquire the magic five first place wins to show at Westminster.

Christine Putscher also did well in 1969, as she was judged Top Southern Junior Handler in the first annual competition held at Shreveport, Louisiana, in March 1970. Chris is 14 years old and lives in Houston, Texas. She has been showing for about two years and should be an example for other juniors who need a little encouragement to show their Basenjis at the shows.

Good luck at the shows and I'll be back next month with more news of new junior handlers and hopefully a letter or two from YOU! See ya around!

BASENJIS IN FRANCE

by Genie Rundle

Domaine d'Alverne, 06 Berre-les-Alpes, France

This month I have the great honour and privilege to announce to Basenji owners world-wide the name of the wonderful person who is doing so much to help the breed with its problems over here. It is none other than Her Serene Highness The Princess Antoinette of Monaco, sister-in-law of Princess Grace and sister of Prince Rainier.

Princess Antoinette is President-Foundress of the Societe Canine de Monaco which she directs personally with more than average enthusiasm and efficiency. She is also Honorary President of the F.C.I. and her prestige is unequalled in many spheres. She was guest of honour at the famous Crufts exhibition in London in 1969 where she graciously presented trophies to the winners. She travels widely and is a true Basenji lover. Without her generosity and personal zeal, I doubt if we would have the courage to carry on against the odds which have been so strongly against us until now, but I do personally feel that at last we are travelling the right and sure road, and that after the Princess has been able to present her dossier on the Club's behalf, at the F.C.I.'s next A.G.M., all will be well, and the air cleared. At least this is the aim.

My own small contribution towards achieving the same end has been to write numerous letters to kennel clubs all over the world, asking if they will be good enough to confirm the classification of the Basenji as a Hound in their country. In view of the fact that this involves countries which are affiliated with the F.C.I. where languages are varied, it is thought unlikely that this magazine's former appeals will have reached them, so the extra effort - costly and tedious - has had to be made.

The Princess Antoinette has, in fact, made it clear that while she is more than willing to do all she can to help, she must be backed by letters from these kennel clubs. Also by chairmen of all-breed clubs. In view of the fact that we cannot know exactly how many signatures have already been received, following The Basenji editor's very kind cooperation in opening a petition last June. Nor can we know yet how many personal letters have gone out directly to the F.C.I. It is further suggested that those who have not, so far, written expressing their views might like to do so by writing directly to the Princess at the address given below. This is probably the last time I shall be able to appeal in this way, so I will end the matter by just saying a big "Thank You" to all, and I am sure we will win in the end.

No show news right now. In France at this time of year they are virtually finished, but fun was had by our New Zealand girls on July 19th when they took GLOW and BAMBI to the annual animal fair at Roguebrune-sur-Argens, in the Var. This was in reply to a request by the organisers for me to lend them a Basenji for a new feature they were planning in the form of a fashion parade. My information is somewhat confined to how good the dogs were and little else. I haven't even been able to find out what the mannequin wore who presented the 'Senjis. "I was so taken up with admiration watching the dogs," said Adrienne. Also rather overwhelmed by the unexpected applause which greeted their appearance.

The hot summer days have not left us idle, and the Club's first Bulletin is due to appear before Christmas. It is being prepared in two similar editions, one in French, the other in English and will be sent to members free of charge every quarter.

The address: Her S. A. S. La Princesse Antoinette de Monaco, Societe Canine de Monaco, Palais des Congres, Avenue d'Ostende, Monte Carlo, Principaute de Monaco.

PERSISTENT PUPILLARY MEMBRANE AND ASSOCIATED DEFECTS IN THE BASENJI

From Lois Akers, BCOA Chairman Eye Research Committee

The BCOA Eye Committee would appreciate it very much if you would reprint the enclosed article. It's the first article by an English research team to come to our attention, and we feel it would be interesting to breeders.

SUMMARY — Persistent pupillary membrane, an inherited ocular abnormality, is recorded in the Basenji in Great Britain. It is due to a dominant gene with a wide range of expression affecting structures in both the anterior and posterior segments of the eye, including pigmented stumps in the region of the lesser circle of the iris and strands crossing the pupil, colobomata of the iris, opacities and spots in the cornea and fragments on the posterior cornea, congenital anterior synechia, microcornea, cataracts and pigment patches on the anterior lens capsule, colobomatous cupping of the optic disc. All these defects may be classed as typical colobomatous defects, varying considerably in severity and only rarely affecting vision.

INTRODUCTION

The pupillary membrane is a sheet of mesoderm carrying a network of anastomosing blood vessels, covering the anterior surface of the lens, and formed during the development of the eye. It forms the very thin and almost acellular central part of the lamina irido-pupillaris, or posterior wall of the anterior chamber, the peripheral portion of which remains permanently to form the superficial layer of the iris (Duke-Elder, 1963). Atrophy of the pupillary membrane commences in foetal life, but not uncommonly parts remain into adult life and may then be spoken of as a persistent pupillary membrane (p.p.m.).

Following the report (Roberts, 1967) of this inherited ocular defect in Basenjis in America, breeders in this country were anxious to have their dogs examined to ascertain whether this condition was common in their breed in Great Britain, if so to find sound stock for breeding, and also to discover if p.p.m. was a serious cause of defective vision, as at the time there were rumors of many dogs blind because of this condition.

MATERIALS AND METHODS

A total of 222 Basenjis have been examined. Approximately the same number of dogs as bitches, and all the accepted coat colours. Ages ranged from 4 weeks to 14 years. Complete litters of puppies have been seen and a number of these have been examined on several occasions up to 12 months of age, and the normal post-natal atrophy of the pupillary membrane in the Basenji compared with Labrador, Border Collie, Boston Terrier, Greyhound, and cross-bred litters.

The method of examination was found to be a most important factor in the diagnosis of this condition. Naked eye examination is inadequate and for this reason very many cases go unnoticed by owners and breeders, and only animals with large corneal opacities and severely defective vision are recognised. Direct ophthalmoscopy reveals many cases, but not all, and a slit lamp binocular microscope is the best and most reliable method. Although slit lamp examination may not be a practical proposition in all cases, in the future it would be wise to use it during the examination of all dogs found negative by direct ophthalmoscopy, particularly if certificates are to be given for future breeding stock. Anomalies occurring within the width of the iris are best seen when the pupil is constricted. The strands crossing the pupil are most obvious when viewed against the tapetal reflection and when the pupil is dilated. When the pupil is constricted these strands sag and may be hidden, but when the pupil is dilated they become taut and thus more obvious.

In addition to the wide range of colobomatous defects affecting both anterior and posterior segments of the eye, there is a considerable variation in the severity of the individual lesions and often a pronounced difference between the two eyes, although both invariably show some defect, however slight. This is very similar to the situation existing in the Collie eye anomaly (Barnett, 1969). In all our cases vision was very rarely affected and in spite of many instances of p.p.m. and congenital anterior synechia the pupil was usually normal in shape and movement. It was only in the few cases showing severe colobomata of the disc and extensive corneal opacity that sight was known to be defective, and we feel it important to stress this fact because many breeders thought that p.p.m. was the cause of several cases of blindness. However, the minor manifestations are important and must be recognised when choosing future breeding stock.

P.p.m. and associated colobomatous defects are inherited in both man and animals, and if the wide variations are all classed as typical colobomata and considered together from a genetic point of view the mode of inheritance follows a dominant pattern and there is no sex linkage. The gene has a wide range of expression, leading to the many different defects, and it has also been suggested in man (Duke-Elder, 1964) that the gene varies considerably in its penetrance so that sometimes one of more generations are missed—transmission may therefore be considered as irregularly dominant and the study of pedigrees of all our cases has shown that this is very probably the case in the Basenji. Certainly we have had no evidence of a recessive gene, colobomatous defects have been seen in four generations in one family, and males and females are equally affected.

The pupillary membrane in dogs is still present when the eyes open and can be seen quite clearly in puppies between two and three weeks of age (by this time the cornea has cleared a little) as a fine network in the pupillary area. Atrophy of the membrane usually occurs at three weeks of age commencing from the centre of the pupil and leaving a few strands visible around the edge, finally these disappear between 3 to 5 weeks of age. An attempt has been made to compare the normal atrophy of the pupillary membrane in the Basenji with other breeds and it would seem that in the Basenji atrophy does occur about 2 weeks later, although some strands may well atrophy at a much later date. It is known in man that if strands of p.p.m. remain beyond the first year of life they are likely to be permanent. From these facts it would be wise to delay the examination of puppies for evidence of this anomaly until at least 2 months, and wherever possible 3 months of age. In man p.p.m. and other colobomatous defects of the eye are often associated with anomalies of other parts of the body, and it is interesting that the Basenji has been recorded as having a high incidence of inherited inguinal hernia and midline defects (Fox 1963). It has been stated above that colobomata are due to a disturbance in the closure of an embryonic cleft and a significant number of the Basenjis we have examined with eye defects have also had umbilical herniae. Dental anomalies have also been recorded in man, and one Basenji examined had minor colobomatous eye defects and missing second and third upper pre-molar teeth on one side.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS — Many breeders of Basenjis have been only too willing to have their dogs examined, often on several occasions, and have been most helpful in providing pedigrees. Thanks are due also to Miss M. W. Fogg, R.A.N.A. for much of the genealogical work entailed in this study, and to Mrs. S. Brito, M.R.S. for some of the photography.

BASENJI CLUB OF NEW ENGLAND

yankee doin's

by Robert House

RFD #1, Skyline Drive, Oakdale, Connecticut 06370

Summer in New England is a wonderful time for vacations, and also the time when most dog shows take place. This year my wife and I planned early to spend one week of our vacation in Northern New England, attending the New England dog show circuit which takes place the first two weeks of July. We had a wonderful time and met many new friends, including Wayne Holbrook and family from Michigan. Mr. Holbrook's trip was most rewarding as he finished his bitch REVEILLE RETORT. Later, champagne, furnished by Mr. Holbrook, was enjoyed by fellow exhibitors.

If you enjoy camping, attending dog shows, and meeting friendly people, you should consider a vacation in conjunction with this New England circuit next year.

The members of BCONE held a meeting, August 1st, at President Ross Dwinell's home, and as usual, Virginia (his wife) served a most delicious buffet. Without a doubt, Virginia can be called the "Pearl Mesta" of the BCONE because of the gracious way she can entertain.

The BCONE fall match was discussed in detail and will be held at the home of Dick Gilbert in New Hampshire, on September 13, 1970. Dick has promised good weather in New Hampshire at this time of year, and Mr. Malcolm MacDonald from Canada, has consented to be our judge.

As Eastern BCOA Specialty Co-Chairman, I would like to remind you not to forget to make reservations for the dinner at 5: P. M., September 19, following the judging, with Mrs. Bobbi Abelson, 8 Canterbury Road South, Harrison, New York 10528. The price is $6.50 per person. Please contact Bobbi for further information.

Many articles have been written on the ethics of breeding, and offering stud services. One practice I question is if an owner should offer his dog to outside stud. This is a point that should be most carefully considered since a heavily used stud dog will exert great influence on his breed. Because an animal is a top winner in the show ring and is able to throw his type, does not necessarily make him the ideal dog to be used at random with outside bitches.

A dog is like a tree - a good deal of him is there for all to see and appraise, however, like the tree, the greater part of him is hidden under the surface in his body structure and genetic makeup. A conscientious owner will strive to determine if his dog is as free of hidden faults as possible before offering him at stud. If it is discovered that such an excellent animal does possess some flaw, he should be used with extreme caution and his puppies carefully controlled. This way the good that this dog has to offer can be retained for the breed without spreading his faults far and wide. If such a dog is used with an outside bitch, the bitch's owner should be warned so he can make the decision as to whether to take the risk or not. One breeder has won my respect for just such an unselfish gesture.

At this time, our breed is faced with several defects that are threatening us. We can all go our merry way and pretend they don't exist until they have become prevalent and serious, and they can no longer be ignored, or we can roll up our sleeves and get to work on them. To fight this will mean a good deal of sacrifice. We will need a lot more cooperation from breeders than has been shown in the past.

Haere Mai From Kiwi Land

Wow, whatever one can say about Basenji puppies, they certainly know how to keep a household on the run, as well as half the neighborhood busy saving newspapers. Last year our supply of papers was abruptly cut short when the first Americans landed on the moon and everybody kept their copies for several days. Magazine pages aren't nearly so absorbent.

This weekend we introduced a new owner to her puppy. Our heads are still whirling from answering questions, in spite of nearly a year's correspondence and the loan of many Basenji books. Jack and I took the pup and owner to the airport yesterday and wondered if we should be administering a tranquilizer to her instead of the pup. Our airways insist on dogs being tranquilized during flight - no doubt they have their reasons.

Luckily the arrival of Basenji puppies coincides with our slack season for show here in New Zealand. Puppies are eligible for a challenge point from six months of age, and 12 challenge points, under at least six different judges are necessary for champion status. The points are awarded on the basis of one point in each breed to the best of each sex, and one additional point is awarded to the Best in Show winner. CH. MY OWN OF CLENDON, bred and owned by Dawn Clark of Auckland, is the only Basenji to have gone Best in Show at an all-breed championship show in New Zealand. "MIKE" passed away earlier this year at almost 14 years old, and was a treasured pet of Dawn and Des Clark.

Margaret MacKintosh of Victoria, Australia, reported the rather hectic arrival of TIKI'S pups. At 5 A.M. she awoke to hear her daughter Leanne shouting, "TIKI has puppies in Kim's bed." With that Margaret leapt out of bed and flew into the girls' room to find TIKI under the blankets, one puppy under her daughter's leg, one behind TIKI and the other trying to feed. The remaining three pups were born in the whelping box. Incidentally, Kim slept blissfully through the excitement.

Jack who is an engineer in a local county, came home chuckling the other night. Seems the county's noxious weeds inspector was driving past a farm and spotted two dogs chasing and apparently about to ravage some sheep. Thinking he would save the county ranger a job, he captured both dogs and popped them into the local county depot. Unfortunately he then forgot to notify the ranger of same, and although the dogs were fed by the depot staff, it was some days before the ranger heard about them. On arrival at the depot he checked and found both had registration tags on their collars, and both belonged to the same owner. He duly drove them over. He didn't exactly receive the grateful thanks he expected. Seems the farmer-owner had sent his two Sheepdogs out to round up these same sheep five days before. . . .

Ramblin' With Grannie Green

by Evelyn Green

In earlier columns I've mentioned the apparent affinity which exists between musicians and animals, particularly dogs. I've compiled several anecdotes which I feel will intrigue my readers as much as it has this writer.

I'll start with my immediate family; my husband, my son and I. While only one of us is a musician, music is an integral part of our lives. This factor has led to my observations in the relationship between musicians and animals.

Dr. Raymond Mannoni, Dean of Fine Arts at the University of Southern Mississippi, has a lifetime association with dogs. Dr. Mannoni, his wife Karen and daughter Barbara are seriously involved in music. When teen-age Barbara expressed a desire to own a dog, grave consideration and a great deal of research was given to the selection of the breed. The ultimate decision was a Basenji.

"It's the ideal breed for a musician," Dr. Mannoni explained whimsically, "it eliminates the competition between the sound of music and barking."

His opinion holds more truth than fiction. I've known a Basenji to listen intently to music which appealed to his ear; walk away disdainfully at other selections which failed to hold his interest. This also applies to a certain extent to human voices.

Mr. Roy M. Martin, managing director of the United States Band and Chorus, who has worked with dogs in the field as well as herding cattle, chose a Basenji for a very different reason. He states, "I've read that a Basenji can be trained for any purpose one may desire of him." That's a tall order yet I have no doubt this man can fill it.

One of the most interesting musicians I've known is Mrs. Juanita E. Beck of La Crosse, Wisconsin. A serious musician and teacher who studied piano with a protege of Ignace Jan Paderewski, a collector of antiques which include several priceless pianos, she also owns a museum piece calliope and circus wagon which she and Mr. Beck have restored. The authentic American creation which is drawn by a six-up hitch of pygmy-sized hybrid mules, is seen constantly in parades with Mrs. Beck playing circus favorites on the calliope. Her recording 'Calliope Capers' is an all-time favorite at music centers.

The Becks also have a large farm, and have a long involvement with many animals. They've owned several breeds of dogs. A short time ago Mrs. Beck learned about the Basenji from her son who is a navy flyer. He was so enthusiastic about the breed that Mrs. Beck did a little investigating of her own. The result, a Basenji in their home. It's quite possible, from their delight with the new addition, that the little Basenji may shortly be seen riding beside Mr. Beck when the circus calliope wagon joins a parade.

It would be unfair to overlook the 'now' generation in this commentary on musicians and dogs. Walter McCreary of Coronado, California, is an accomplished guitarist, and has done some composing. Yes, two Basenjis own him.

RUTH'S ROUNDUP OF NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

by Ruth D. Shannon

The Basenji Club of Northern California held their annual dinner meeting for the election of officers, July 21, at Lyons Restaurant in Fremont, California. A cocktail hour was enjoyed prior to the meeting. The banquet room was decorated with pink and white carnations. The highlight was a paper-mache Basenji made by a 13-year-old girl who does not own a Basenji, but loves them dearly. She is a neighbor of Loretta Smith (club member). I don't know her name, but the club owes her our debt of gratitude for a lovely gesture. The food was delicious with choice of three entrees. 27 members attended. The new officers are as follows:

President: Dr. Gary Ewing, DVM; Vice-president: Larry Stahl; Secretary: Judy Stahl; Treasurer: Pat Holland. Board of Directors: Jim Shannon (re-elected); Linda Hollenbeck (formerly secretary); Lorraine Poletti (serving 2-year term).

This club is now entering into its third year. Our membership is growing steadily. Our members are active. Our first Sanctioned B Match was held in May, and we hope to hold our second before the end of the year. It's a growing club, so all you Northern California Basenji owners come on and join us. We'll put you to work, but it will be fun. Help us help you!!

Our congratulations go to a young lady by the name of Kathy Gavey (just 8 years old) who entered her first AKC show as junior handler at Ventura County Dog show, July 25, 1970. There were 16 in competition and our Kathy took first in Novice A - so congratulations, Kathy and we'll be looking forward to seeing more of you in junior handling. Kathy handles like a professional. It's a joy to watch her.

We enjoyed the company of very lovely people over the weekend, Captain and Mrs. Eugene Ryder from Tucson, Arizona, who are touring California and attending a few shows, staying for the Western Specialty. Captain Ryder is a young man of 76 and handles his own Basenji CAPTAIN PHEMISTER'S ZAK RYDER, a very nice young male he obtained from the Pheisters. Good luck with him, Captain Ryder. Also visiting were the Lt. Charles Gnillas. "Chuck" is attending naval school at Monterey, but still finds time to attend the shows with his charming wife Martha and their young son Charles. The baby is 9 months old and loves WANA, the Basenji they own. Martha handles WANA. Martha is a talented artist - so many Basenjites are so talented. The Sterling Ebels from Northern California were also present. They own two beautiful tris. And the Paul Gaveys made the list of guests. I have to watch Paul and Barbara so they don't walk off with our SIR. Paul so graciously came to our aid to handle SIR and a strong bond has developed between them. Every time Paul comes SIR goes for his lead.

The Frank Scheufels have moved up here and we extend a hearty welcome to them. Frank has served on the board of directors for the past two years, but he did not care to accept another term due to business. The board will miss him.

By the time this comes off the press, I hope to have greeted many of you at the Western Specialty. We are looking forward to that weekend!!!

SKIN PROBLEMS IN DOGS

by R. W. Kirk, D.V.M.

Skin diseases of dogs may be caused by external or internal factors, and many conditions are made worse by harsh dips, baths or lotions. A veterinarian attempts to diagnose the problem by observing the specific skin lesion (pimple, scab or scar) and noting its pattern of distribution. Owners can be most helpful in describing when and how the disease started and how it progressed. Itching is a major problem of many skin diseases, some of which are more difficult to treat. Allergies, parasites and atony are major causes of scratching.

Flea collars have been effective for 90% of dogs in alleviating parasite problems. However, about 10% of dogs are sensitive to them and severe skin reactions may develop in these animals. If the collars are used improperly skin reactions may also develop.

Demodectic mange is one of the "monsters" of skin afflictions. Simple cases respond well to treatment but complicated ones may be incurable. Dogs with this problem often develop secondary staphylococcal infections which further complicate the disease. The parasites may be contracted by the pups' nursing dam, and hence it's a real problem to breeders raising pups for sale. No real "cure" exists, and although some research is progressing, no complete understanding of the disease problem exists.

Bacterial infections of the skin - especially of the nose and feet - is also a serious problem. Afflicted dogs seem to have poor native resistance to infections and cures are often difficult and expensive. Certain breeds seem predisposed to this and to other special types of skin disease.

Diet has long been considered to be important as a cause or as a cure of various skin problems. In fact, this is rarely true. Extreme conditions may have an influence on the animal's coat, but hereditary factors, environment, and general care are usually much more important. A well balanced, varied diet is usually adequate to produce a good coat and good skin health.

It is a trite phrase, but true - the skin and coat are mirrors of the dog's general health. Without basic good health the skin cannot reflect the "glow" that is so desirable.

HEART O'NORTHLAND BASENJI CLUB

by Lu Schlichting
R.R. #2, Wadena, Minnesota 56482

We in Minnesota are paying for our complaining last winter of the cold weather. It has been so hot even our Basenjis have been panting. Ours have turned into gophers. It has been so dry and in our large pen, they dig holes until they get to cool dirt and then lie in the holes. It looks funny to see only heads above the ground.

Plans are going full blast for our fun match for August 29 in Bloomington. Hope all you people in the area are planning to attend.

In June we held a tri-county dog show in Wadena. Our local junior leaders did all the planning, trophy buying and everything. We were asked to find a judge, so we talked Barb Hagberg into volunteering and she did a very capable job. Everyone felt it was a huge success. This past week was our county fair and this is what our kids work for all year. We were disappointed with our judge. He doesn't know much about obedience work and had the kids confused. Many of them were heard to say that they thought Mrs. Hagberg was much better.

I would like to tell you of our "small fry" trainer. Our Gordie John, age 2, is helping to train THUMPY. He is always commanding her to stay, sit, down and come. If she is not around, it is the same with any other dog. He takes the lead of the dogs at training class and leads them around. It is quite a sight to see him with a big Irish Setter, hollering "heel!" Perhaps we have a pro handler on the way up!

During the summer we have many visitors. So far, this year we've had visitors from Indiana, Arkansas and many areas from Minnesota, stopping to talk Basenjis. We are always glad to see Basenji people.

Thoughts Provokin'

by A. B. Reeder

I am disappointed in you. Some months ago I mentioned that dog fanciers were discriminated against and urged a hard campaign to secure equality for our animals. I cited the various regulations placed upon dogs - rabies inoculations, licenses, leash laws, confinement to own property, etc., and you seem to have taken this not at all to heart. As a result you might be interested to note what has been happening in the world while you sat and watched.

A recent issue of a large metropolitan newspaper carried an advertisement 2 columns by 8 1/2 inches for something called "The National Cat Protection Society." Now 17 column inches in a major newspaper is nothing to purrat. The ad went on to say that of the 40 million cats in the country, only 22 million had homes - leaving 18 million to fend for themselves, and said that only one out of six would ever find homes. Hidden near the end of the eight listed objectives of this society was their number 7 which read: "Introduction of laws to protect felines and guarantee their rights." What rights? The right to kill birds? The right to sadistically torment mice? To claw trees and shrubs? To befoul the air with their stench? Aren't there anti-pollution laws to protect the humans from such evils?

Listed among the honorary vice presidents were the names of a U.S. senator and a former wife of a movie star - both reasonably well known. What have you done to protect and advance the interests and rights of the canine world.

It is a very serious problem. If this spreads just think what could happen if the hamster owners and the rabbit owners to say nothing of the mouse owners, join forces and demand, perhaps by means of a march on the White House and a demonstration in front of the Supreme Court, the protection of their species and the guarantee of their "rights." Why if this were allowed to happen we'd be up to here in hamsters, rabbits and mice. Shades of a book of some years ago entitled, "Pigs is Pigs," written, I believe by Chic Sales. A most potent argument in support of my own proposition, is this old story.

So you see we have glamour in the guise of a former wife of a movie star, and legislative power in the form of a U.S. senator, working against us in this matter. Not that we want to eliminate or dominate the other species, but surely we can demand "equal rights." Isn't it about time we did?? Have you started at the local level and written your city or county officials about their discrimination against the canines? Don't you think it high time you did?

Should you think this a laughing matter, check about a bit and see what regulations apply to dogs and to kennels. Then see what regulations apply to other varieties or species and to catteries, fisheries, aviaries, apiaries, mouse-eries (or is it mice-eries?) and all other types of preferred, segregated housings.

Oh yes, the N.C.P.S. which placed the ad made note that it is a "bona fide non-profit, charitable organization" and that your gifts were tax deductible. So you, dear canine loving taxpayer, are footing the bill, in a sense for this organization which wants to guarantee rights for felines. And presumably, the preferred and discriminatory treatment they received while canine fanciers must pay and be restricted.

Aren't you tired of having your dog classed as a second citizen? Do something - NOW - before it is too late. Don't laugh, remember they laughed at Orville and Wilbur and now you can't stand the noise of jet aircraft, and they laughed at the first "horseless carriage" and today it is killing us - rapidly by accidents: over 50,000 per year - or slowly by air pollution from exhaust fumes or by slaughter of sea life from tanker carrier crude oil.

It's later than you think. Don't just sit there - ACT!

NEW AUSTRALIAN CHAMPION

TONKAMEN GAZELLE

Owned by Dorothy Oestreich, 14 Whynot Street, West End, Brisbane 4101, Queensland, Australia. The following are some of her wins: 6 Best of Breeds; 4 Minor Puppy Group; 3 Minor Puppy shows; 9 Puppy Groups; 8 Champion Puppy Groups; 5
Puppy Shows; 4 Champion Puppy Shows; Runner Up in Group, once; Best Exhibit in Group once; Champion of Parade, once.

and happy when her bitch puppy went Best Puppy. The pup's name is INQUIZZITIFF AZENDA and she was handling very nicely for her win. Jack Fleming walked off for the third year in a row with the Winners Dog award with his KENGEYAMBA OF NIANGARA. All the winners were red and white. Of the 47 entries, there was one tri and she was a worthy specimen.
Beautiful coat and markings. Three black and white males were entered and they too, were in outstanding coat.

Coat conditions were very bad, and obviously gait left a lot to be desired. I think I'll reserve comment on this until a later date when the entries can be fairly judged without their hopping over puddles, and be shown in something besides a 3 x 5 foot ring.

Next weekend (August 1) is Windsor and that we are really looking forward to, if for no other reason than the marvelous show site. Windsor promises to be a lot of fun and we'll bring you all the happenings next time. After Windsor, Norman and Molly Field are having their traditional supper for some of the northern Basenji folks. We are looking forward to that.

August 8th, will find us at the Annual Basenji Club of Great Britain show in Northampton. The judge there will be
Mr. Fred Jones.

MIDWEST SPECIALTY, Omaha, November 22, 1970.
Something new in offer this year, especially for all those marvelous people who just tag along so Mom (or Pop) can take SENJ in the ring and do her thing! That something new is called "Photographers Trophies." The trophies are two Bosun Facial Masks that look like shrunken heads! One will go for the best formal photo (Basenji set up or gaiting) and the other for the best candid photo (Basenji being groomed, etc.) Color or black and white acceptable. The only catch is the photos must have been taken at the Omaha Specialty. Trophies will be in possession of Dave Thorndike and on display at the specialty. Photos will be judged by Dion Mullis and may be submitted to Dave Thorndike or Dion Mullis by December 15, 1970. They will be returned if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed.

Please remember to have your name on the photo itself.

sometimes he will have you gait in a triangular pattern. When you return to the judge he will expect the dog to be alert to any sounds he may make with keys, etc., or bait him yourself.
After each entry has been examined separately, you usually gait around with the others again, and hopefully, you are in the ribbons for your class.

To get back to the stand-for-examination - after your dog has practiced his gaiting, repeat the word "stand" until he knows what is expected of him. And don't forget the praise when he does something right, or even half right. You get so much better results with praise than with angry orders with Basenjis, plus the bonus of having a happy worker. Here again it is helpful to have someone look at his teeth and to press gently on his back. Mouth examinations can be done at anytime and the dog will become accustomed to it, and will not resent it. Male organ examinations can also be done more frequently, but gently please. At no time should the dog be so handled that he will resent others touching him. In standing the dog, many times all that is necessary is a gentle tug on the lead and then checking to see that the hindquarters are set right. If the top-line of the dog does not appear level, try various foot positions until you approximately achieve this goal and then recheck the feet to make sure you don't spread them too much. Don't fuss constantly with the dog once he is set up or you both will be too jittery.

Next month we will discuss the various classes in which you can enter your dog. If there are dog training classes in your area, do attend with your dog and the shows will come easier. Also participate in all matches that you can.

CAPITOL PAW PRINTS (continued)

was referred to as "the National Dog of America" - Boston Terriers! The show secretary has since been informed that there are those here who won't accept this as our national breed, although it is the only breed which originated here. So, if you read of a car in mid-Atlantic being pursued by some irate citizenry screaming "Flog the ruddy colonial," it's all been explained beforehand. However, some people will do anything to get away from the heat and humidity of this area!

HOUND OR TERRIER (concluded)

4) Characteristics generally required in Terriers are heavy bone, greater development of rib cage, and general cobiness. The Bedlington with its flat sides and roach is to some extent an exception to this, but this may derive from the use of the Whippet, and places this breed as it were on the fringe of Terrier type, with a number of hound characteristics. The general elegance and fine bone of the Basenji would seem to make it a very uneasy member of such a group, but appear to be much more at home in a line-up containing the Whippet and the Saluki.

5) The Basenji obviously has considerable affinities with the "Spitz" breeds such as the Elkhound, and the Finnish Spitz (allowing for differences occasioned by habitat) and both these breeds are in the hound group in this country.

6) Finally, even if we admit that there is considerable diversity in the hound group, again arising from selective breeding for specific purposes, such as in the Basset and Beagle, with their sturdiness and heavy bone, and the Bloodhound, if one places such breeds as the Afghan Hound and the Saluki in the hound group (and who can imagine otherwise) there can be no justification on grounds of function alone, for not also including the Basenji.

I suspect, however, that in spite of all this historical and analytical argument, the reaction to it of any Basenji who understood what was going on would be to yawn with that brand of superior resignation which is so typical, and curl up a little tighter in the best chair. I can't really see how, in the long run, it makes very much difference to the dogs themselves which breeds they stand with for the group judging - a good Basenji despises them all!

YIPEE! We made it - a 5-point major show at Florence, Kentucky, July 19. The BCOC takes a well deserved bow!

What a thrilling experience to see a 40 Basenji entry after weeks of planning, working and hoping. Our sincere thanks to Judge Alva Rosenberg who did a tremendous job, and took time out to comment on dogs and explain his decisions to both novice and experienced.

KHAJAH'S BLACK RAVEN OF KELYN, owned by Dorothy Jacobson came from the puppy class to take Winners Dog for 4 points. Reserve Dog was our KHAJAH'S GAY LY-SANDER. Winners Bitch and Best of Winners for 5 points and Best of Breed over 5 Specials to finish her Championship was BAZIMBA'S PERT 'N PRETTY, owned and handled by Bettie Rees. Reserve Bitch was KUKUK'S GAY ZAMBI, owned by Lou and Forrest Dye.

The after show luncheon hosted by the BCOC was a great success with the weather cooperating until after we all ate. Guests and friends came from far and near with over 35 attending, including Peggie Peek, Ellen Snyder from the south; the Heaton's from Indianapolis, Indiana; Jack and Carol Peek from Atlanta, Georgia; Shirley Chambers from Pennsylvania; Bettie Rees and Mary Polley from Northern Ohio and Marian and Bill Settles and Alice Jones from Kentucky.

The Club wishes to publicly thank all exhibitors and friends who helped us make this a memorable occasion.

POETS' CORNER

"This is my towel!"

"No, it's mine!"

"Let's take time out!"

- - - Betty Hogland

BE(AU) JABBERS

I never heard the school bell ring,
 But pals that I thought true
 No longer can be found around — They've left each place we knew.

I've searched the woods, the pastures too
 And all, I found, in vain;
 They must be in that pile of brick
 That stands across the lane.

If things were left quite up to me,
 I'd change them if I could;
 I wouldn't rest until the day
 When schools were closed for good.

"Waiting patiently for my chow."

NAPTALI

Presenting: *Can. Ch. NAPTALI'S EBONY FAIYUM
(*subject to C.K.C.)

From start to finish, YUM YUM completed her Ch. in 10 days, owner handled, including 3 RWB, 2 WB, 1 BOW, and a RWB at Bellingham, Wash. Her points were awarded by Mrs. Mary E. Daye, Mr. Leslie B. Rogers, and Mrs. Dolly Wall. Arriving home just in time to board a plane for Texas and her "intended" Am. Ch. Spearwood Dancing Red Deer," she is again happily at home awaiting her first litter. Reservations on this litter will be accepted, inquiries invited.

ALSO OFFERED FOR SALE is the very lovely English import DRUMABAS DOTTERELL available open or bred. She is by the top winning Eng. Ch. St. Erme Fula Falcon of the Congo, out of the Canadian beauty Can. Am. Ch. Drumadoon Dresden.

STUD SERVICE AVAILABLE FROM:—

Can. Ch. Naptali's Cheops (Proven, $100) see page 21

*Ron-Anne's Black Lancer (Proven, $125) see next issue

Naptali's Congolese Ba'Shar (Proven, $100) see page 21

*Naptail's Namkibi Nubian Kekui (Unproven, $100) next issue

*Both are Dominant Black and Whites
